I focus on continuously improving myself in software development, web technologies, DevOps, and especially mobile programming. During this process, I have developed various projects using C, C++, JavaScript, and Java. I have created Android-based applications. I have set up microservice architectures using Docker and container technologies. Using C++ for socket programming, my teammate and I developed a web server using the HTTP/1.1 protocol and a classic Pong game from scratch using modern technologies. You can check out all the details of these projects, my Medium articles, and my portfolio for my other works.

I believe that I have built a solid foundation with the technical and practical knowledge I have gained so far. Now, I aim to carry this knowledge and experience into my professional life, both to contribute to the company I work for and to take myself to a higher level.

"There is nothing I do not know, only things I have not learned yet." With this mindset, I continue to improve myself and never give up. Working at your company would be a great opportunity for me. Thank you for your interest, best regards.
